CURRICULUM PLANNING AND DEVELOPMENT

The curriculum for the Degree programme in Political Science has been revised three times during the period from 1991 till 2015 (1995, 2000 and 2015). I was involved in the second revision of the Degree programme in Political Science which was done in the year 2000. This revision was to adopt the credit valued semester-based course unit system. In 2014/2015, I designed and developed students centred learning outcome-based curriculum of Political Science (Internal) for the Department of Social Sciences are given below

- i. First year syllabi in Political Science
- ii. General Degree syllabi in Political Science
- iii. Special Degree syllabi in Political Science and introduced new popular courses which support the current needs (both development and job market) of the region and specific to Sri Lanka, eliminating some irrelevant topics existing at that time. This includes

- i. PSS 2142 Traditions in Western Political Thoughts
- ii. PS/S 2212 Modern Political Ideology
- iii. PSS 2242 Gender and Political Power
- iv. PSS 2252 Politics and Mass Media
- v. PSS 3143 Conflict: Concepts and Theoretical Development
- vi. PSS 3152 Concept of Political Violence
- vii. PS/S 3213 Salient Feature of Human Rights
- viii. PSS 3233 Issues in Human Rights
